

PiM - Doing It With Purpose

Casual means relaxed, unconcerned, not regular or permanent (Not serious)
Casual Meeting, Dating, Relationship, Shoes, Attire, etc.

Causal - expressing or indicating a cause (moving with purpose)

We can casually look at the news or scroll through your smartphone, until something gets your attention. Then “U” become causal (purpose driven)

The position of the “U” makes the difference.

I will explain it to you in this story . . .

Ben Hunt-Davis won the Olympic Gold at the Sydney Olympics in 2000 as a part of the 8 man rowing team. When he was interviewed about this accomplishment, he explained that we came up with a philosophy several years ago that we implemented “Will it make the boat go faster?”

For the next four years, all our actions were driven by one thought. “Will it make the boat go faster?”

This was our personal commitment and our accountability commitment. “Will it make the boat go faster?”

I am tired, so I will skip practice today. (Will it make the boat go faster?)

I worked hard and I deserve some sweets today. (will it make the boat go faster?)

Here’s how to make your boat go faster.

1. I will plan my day and work my plan
2. I will always guard my health and happiness
3. I will never allow someone to put me in a casual position or casual state of mind when they are causal.
4. I will give to others, especially when I see “cause” in their eyes.

“The only thing evil needs to triumph is for good men to do nothing!”
