

PiM Partners In Marriage

“A thriving friendship is one that is continually developed. It cannot protect itself. One has to invoke divine protection.” C.S. Lewis

Set the Environment!

By: J.L. Godbolt, Ph.D.

The husband is the thermostat and the wife is the thermometer.

Cooler or Warmer?

Under most circumstances, the husband sets the atmosphere and the wife responds. If you walk in your home and the thermometer (wife) registers too hot, you don't turn on your heater! Keep your cool by keeping an open mind, non-threatening tone and body language and address the problem. If the temperature (wife) is registering cold, don't turn on your AC! Use the same technique as when it is too hot.

You have to know what your wife needs and be willing to meet it!

A candlelight dinner may be fine, but if she wants you to clean up behind yourself, save the dinner for a later time and clean up.

Take the 21 Day Love Journey and discover new ways to enhance your love relationship with your spouse. It's never too late! www.partnersinmarriage.com.